

UPHAM IS SWORN IN
AND PECK GOES OUTINAUGURATION CEREMONIES
HELD THIS AFTERNOON.

Governor's Guard Escorted the Officers Elect to the Executive Chambers, Where Chief Justice Orton Administered the Oath of Office to Each—Big Ball To-Night.

MADISON, Jan. 7.—[Special]—Shortly before noon to-day the special train on the St. Paul road that had brought Major Upham and his party from Marshfield by way of Portage, arrived in the city. Carriages were in waiting, and each state officer and his ladies were placed in the special care of a member of the reception, who made it his duty to have him well cared for and who will escort himself and his lady to and from the reception this evening.

The carriages containing the officers-elect were escorted to the capitol by the First regiment band, the Governor's Guard and the Boys' brigade of the Presbyterian church. Upon arriving at the capitol building the party was taken to the executive chamber where the officers of the outgoing administration received them. The ladies of the party were taken to the executive chamber where places were reserved for them. A committee had escorted the judges of the supreme and federal courts to the chamber. Mayor Corcoran presided and by his side sat Chief Justice Orton, who administered the oath of office.

The officers elect came in, each on the arm of his predecessor in office. They were each escorted to the chief justice and took the oath and the ceremony was over. It was simple yet very impressive.

sive. After a brief white spent in handshaking in the executive chamber the newly inaugurated officers were taken to their homes. Gov. and Mrs. Peck had given over the executive mansion to the servants of Gov. and Mrs. Upham, who arrived at the close of last week. All was in readiness to receive the new occupants of the mansion and the new governor and his family sat down to dinner much as they had done at their own home.

This evening a reception and inaugural ball is to be given in the great drill hall of the new gymnasium. Commencing at eight the newly elected officers and their ladies will receive those who come and an hour or so will be spent in a general reception, after which dancing will be indulged in by those who can dance. The floor of the hall has been covered with canvas and the best of music has been engaged. The ball is free and open to all and a very large crowd will be in attendance.

Will Push Railroad Legislation.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 7.—The local branches of the A. R. U., have resolved to push the railroad measures which that organization has asked Gov. Upham to incorporate in his message affecting the number of men to be employed on train crews, the inspection of locomotive boilers, inspection of tracts, declaring the blacklist illegal, and asking for the abolishment of the truck store system. The local unions have sent an emissary through the state to collect funds and arouse sentiment.

Offered $1,000 for a Vote.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 7.—President Adams of the Ohio miners publishes an alleged exposure as to how the miners' strike of last summer was settled. Adams was a member of a committee representing miners and voted against an acceptance of the rate afterward agreed on. He claims bribery was resorted to, and says he himself was offered $1,000 for his vote. The miners are indignant.

GOES MERELY AS COUNSEL.

Ex-Secretary Foster Talks of His Mission to Japan.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 7.—Mr. Foster, ex-secretary of state of the United States, who is now here awaiting the sailing of the Empress of India for Japan, was interviewed by an Associated press reporter.

Mr. Foster stated that his mission has been much misrepresented by papers, and he wishes to set forth his position clearly. At the request of the Chinese government he had consented to act as counsel to the Chinese peace commissioners and expected to meet the two officials appointed to act in that capacity at Kobe. The negotiations will be carried on at Hiroshima, the present headquarters of the Japanese army and temporary seat of government.

Mr. Foster does not expect to be allowed to attend the sittings of the peace commissioners, as all the deliberations will be carried on in private. He will simply act as counsel and adviser in the matter, and altogether in a private capacity, his appointment not being connected in any way with the United States government. Regarding the length of his absence, Mr. Foster was unable to give any opinion and declines to discuss the probable terms of settlement. Mr. Foster is in the best of health.

MR. BLAINE'S DAUGHTER.

Painful Rumor of Estrangement of Mrs. Beale and Her Husband.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A distressing and painful story is being sent out from here, embellished with many sensational details, relative to the alleged separation of Truxton Beale from his wife. Mr. Beale is the son of the late Gen. Beale, who was the intimate friend of Gen. Grant, and his minister to Austria. The wife of Truxton Beale is Hattie, youngest daughter of the late James G. Blaine. The marriage took place about two years ago, and was a notable social event. While the separation may not have actually taken place, it is pending, and is in effect complete. The fact of the estrangement is widely known in society. Incompatibility is the cause assigned.

SINKS WITH FOUR MEN.

Schooner Run Down in Boston Bay and Only One of the Crew Escapes.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 7.—The schooner D. J. Lawler, pilot boat No. 3, was run down and almost cut in two by the fishing schooner Horace B. Parker, seven miles east-northeast from Minch Light early Saturday morning, and immediately went to the bottom with three of its crew of five men. Of the two remaining men one escaped by a leap from the sinking boat to the bow of the fishing schooner. The second reached the bowsprit of the fisherman, but it gave way beneath him and he went down to a watery grave. The only survivor of the crew is Rudolph Harrison, the steward, a Norwegian, who lived on the boat.

Plan to Develop Foreign Trade.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The responses received indicate the national convention of manufacturers here Jan. 22, 23 and 24 will be well attended. After electing officers some city will be selected for headquarters. In addition to developing foreign trade it is proposed to have expositions in South American capitals and urge the control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States. Among the speakers are Gov. McKinley, Senator Sherman, Mayor Caldwell, Warner Miller, ex-Gov. J. D. Cox, President M. E. Ingalls, Speaker Crisp and Secretary Herbert.

Danger at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 7.—There is serious apprehension of another flood. At 6 o'clock last night the Ohio was eight feet and five inches. At midnight it was fourteen feet five inches, and the indications are that the rise will average over a foot an hour the rest of the night and for some days to come. It would take only a day of such rising to reach the danger point of forty feet of water. In February, 1884, the river reached its highest water mark here of seventy-two feet.

Elkins Against the Field.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 7.—The legislature meets at Charleston next Wednesday. An exceedingly interesting fight is on for the United States senator from West Virginia to succeed Senator J. N. Camden. There are five candidates. It will be Elkins against the field with the present prospects favorable to Elkins. The election of senator takes place Jan. 22.

Flood Starts in Ohio River.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 7.—The warm and heavy rain which began in this vicinity Saturday night has continued almost uninterruptedly since and the snow is nearly all off the ground. Reports from all parts of the Ohio river basin show similar conditions and there is no longer any doubt of a flood. It is expected by river men the river will reach from thirty-five to forty feet and maybe more.

River Rising at Clarksburg.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Last night the West Fork river was fifteen feet two inches deep and rising rapidly at headwaters. There is much destruction of property along the line of the river above this place, and particularly at Weston, where the entire lower portion of the valley is reported to be flooded, and all the railroads and bridges are in danger of being away. There is every indication of a flood that will equal that of 1888.

BIG LOSS BY FIRE
AT TORONTO, ONT.BLAZE WILL COST FULLY
$1,000,000 AT LEAST.

The Globe Newspaper Building and Other Large Business Structures Are Destroyed—One Fireman Killed and Others Badly Hurt—Flames at Baltimore—Other Bad Blazes.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 7.—The most disastrous fire that has taken place in Toronto in many years broke out in the Globe newspaper building, southwest corner of Yonge and Melinda streets, early yesterday morning, and before it could be got under control the Globe building and half a dozen buildings adjoining had been destroyed, causing a loss aggregating about $1,000,000. In addition one fireman lost his life, and several other firemen were injured, some of them possibly fatally.

At 3:30 o'clock the night watchman of the Globe building opened the door of the boiler room and flames at once leaped out. He rang in an alarm, but when the firemen reached the scene the whole building, which was seven stories high and extended west from Yonge street to Jordan, and the rear portion of which was occupied by the Toronto Lithograph company, was in flames. A strong southeast wind was blowing at the time and cinders from the burning building were sent flying for blocks. Fortunately a heavy fall of snow had taken place during Saturday afternoon and evening, covering the roofs to the depth of four inches, and the cinders fell harmless.

But neither the snow nor the most vigorous efforts of the fire department could prevent the fire from spreading to the buildings in the immediate vicinity of the Globe, and soon the dry goods house of Nicholas Rooney to the south, Harry Webb's restaurant on the northwest corner of Melinda and Yonge; the large new building of S. F. McKinnon & Co., wholesale milliners, on the southwest corner of Jordan and Melinda streets, and several buildings to the south of the Globe on Jordan street were in flames.

While the firemen were at work on the Globe building the north wall fell. A new aerial truck was standing in the street below at the time and half a dozen firemen were working on it. Two of the men were buried under the falling bricks, one of whom, Robert Bowers, aged 24, was injured so badly that he died at the hospital. The other, Robert Foster, was seriously hurt.

About the same time a portion of the wall of the Globe building fell upon the printing office of Brough & Caswell, which adjoined it on Jordan street, and, crashing through the roof, precipitated Chief Ardagh and a number of firemen, who were in the building, down the elevator shaft. The chief sustained internal injuries and had to be removed to his home. The other men hurt were: Firemen Frank Forsyth, Charles Smedley, Henry Saunders and James Davidson. Smedley was the most seriously injured.

When after several hours' hard work the fire was got under control nothing of the Globe building and Rooney's dry goods establishment was left but portions of the walls, while Webb's restaurant, McKinnon's millinery establishment, and Brough & Caswell's printing office were gutted.

FIERCE FIRE AT BALTIMORE.

Fertilizer and Acid Works Destroyed, the Losses Exceeding $200,000.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 7.—The fertilizer works of Griffith & Boyd, the acid works of G. H. & T. Davidson, and the stable office and home trade warehouse in No. 1 yard of the Standard Oil company at Canton were destroyed by fire last night. The local loss will run upwards of $200,000, divided as follows: Griffith & Boyd, $100,000; G. H. & T. Davidson, $80,000; Standard Oil company about $87,000 on oil and $12,000 on buildings and machinery. The cause of the fire is not known definitely, but supposed to have been from spontaneous combustion at a leak in the benzine department of the oil works. There was a terrific explosion, caused by the flames communicating with a tank of 500 barrels of "300" or kerosene oil. The concussion was felt at a distance of ten miles. No lives were lost.

Small Town Nearly Wiped Out.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Hamlin, a small town, the county seat of Lincoln county, was almost wiped out by fire last night. The fire originated in the Eagle flour mills and soon spread to the Hamlin handle factory, a large plant, and also to a large sawmill. All these buildings and several smaller were entirely destroyed. The origin of the fire and the extent of the loss are not known. There is, however, little insurance.

Want Peace at Any Cost.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Managua, Nicaragua, of Jan. 4, says: "A special commissioner has been sent to the Mosquito coast with instructions to pacify the people there at any cost."

Peixoto Wants No Trouble.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Rio de Janeiro says: "Ex-President Peixoto has sent a message to his friends requesting them not to obstruct the government."

CHINA AND JAPAN
FAR FROM PEACETHE NEGOTIATIONS ARE PRO-CEEDING BUT SLOWLY.

The General Situation, However, Said To Be Tending Towards an End to the War—Severe Blizzard in Berlin—Hawaiian Conspirators Held—General Foreign News.

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 21, 1894, via San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 7.—All trustworthy signs point to a speedy peace. Events have marched with great rapidity in the last two weeks. The Chinese hopes of resistance have broken down and a formal offer of direct negotiations has been made. Little progress was made until after the capture of Port Arthur, when the Chinese appeared to realize the necessity of immediate action and they declared their readiness to appoint a representative of sufficient rank and to invest him with full powers from the central government. The choice of an appropriate place of meeting remains to be considered. The Chinese have designated one of their own ports, Shanghai, as a desirable rendezvous, but to this Japan will not consent. The movement towards the peace is proceeding, however, in apparently good faith on the part of the Chinese and with sincerity by the Japanese.

The Japanese ministers are thoroughly aware that the interests of their country will be conserved by bringing the war to an end with the least possible delay, but until the proper occasion for proclaiming an armistice presents itself the military operations will continue with unabated vigor. Japan will not be tempted to relax her aggressive energy, nor will she be diplomatically maneuvered out of any of the advantages she has won. The cold in Manchuria is intense, the average temperature being 14 degrees below zero. Many of the laborers have died. Efforts are being made by officials from the interior of China to conceal the truth with respect to the loss of Port Arthur. On a huge bulletin board outside the viceroy's residence at Nanjing was posted Nov. 29 a notice declaring that the Japanese had been defeated with 10,000 slain and that the war was about to be ended.

BLIZZARD IN EUROPE.

Snow Falls in Germany and France Cause
Much Suffering.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—There have been further heavy snow-falls in the southwest, especially in the Odenwald and Schwarzwald. Several places are isolated. Navigation is stopped on the Warthe and Temper rivers of East Prussia. Much wreckage and a number of corpses have been washed ashore on the North Sea coasts. The ship industry is stranded on the Island of Borkum, and it is feared that all her crew were drowned.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The heavy snow-falls have done immense damage in the department of Pyrenees and Orientales, southern France. In Algeria the cold is intense. Five natives have been frozen to death in the streets. Bridges have been destroyed and railway traffic delayed.

HAWAIIAN CONSPIRATORS HELD

Government Detectives Give Details of an Alleged Plot.

HONOLULU, Dec. 31.—The preliminary examination of the alleged conspirators took place and three of them have been held for trial without bail. According to the witnesses there was a deliberate plot to obtain possession of the buildings, and all the officers and prominent supporters of the republic were to be surrounded and arrested at their homes by details of the conspirators. The conspirators were said to have 2,000 stand of arms and the support of the natives, but the trial developed the fact that the natives took no stock in the affair and that the conspiracy was simply got up by a gang of discontented whites and half whites.

Cholera Epidemic Increasing.

BUENOS AYRES, Argentina, Jan. 7.—The correspondent in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, says the cholera epidemic is on the increase. Whole cargoes of dried meat are being returned to the owners, the necessity for fumigating by the health board having ruined the beef. The public health in Buenos Ayres is good, no new cases of cholera having developed.

Refuses to Grant an Armistice.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Peking says that the Chinese envoy to negotiate for peace with Japan had a farewell audience with the Emperor Friday. Japan refuses to grant armistice. Mr. Denby, the American minister, believes the negotiations will be fruitless. The Japanese will withhold their terms for peace until they shall have occupied Peking.

THE INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

Warm Fight on the Speakership of the House.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 7.—No prettier fight than that now on for the republican speakership of the Indiana legislature, that convenes next Thursday, can be recalled by the old-time politicians, who are already gathering at the state capitol. Some of the candidates have had headquarters open for several days and to-day all of the thirteen contestants will begin to entertain. The caucus session from present indications will witness one of the hardest fights in the history of the legislature for speakership and is likely to last all night and up to the hour of assembling the new legislature Thursday noon. This presumption is based on the theory that the outlying districts will doggedly stand by their different favorites. However, there is a chance that only a few ballots will be necessary to select the caucus nominee. The most important piece of legislation to spring from the senate will be the new legislative apportionment plan which Senator Wishard has prepared. This will result in redistricting the state so that on the basis of the 1892 election the house will have forty-eight republicans and fifty-two democrats, and the senate twenty-four republicans and twenty-six democrats.

Illinois Legislators Gathering.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 7.—Illinois legislators are gathering in this city for the opening session. The senatorial fight is of course the chief topic of discussion and the partisans of all the candidates are active. It is still denied by Senator Cullom's friends that he is sure of re-election, but this is vehemently denied by friends of the other aspirants for the senatorial toga. The speakership contest is drifting into the senatorial struggle very rapidly. It is claimed Mr. Meyer of Cook will lead the list of candidates for speaker with probably 34 votes. Mr. Needles and Mr. White will each have about 20 at the outset. Mr. Berry a few and Mr. Cochran will stand fourth in the list. Mr. Muir of Cook claims the possibility of a nomination, and his supporters assert that this will follow as the result of a deadlock. It is impossible to predict the outcome with any certainty.

Bell in Memory of Mrs. Harrison.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 7.—The bell which is to be presented to Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, national regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was exhibited and rung yesterday at the meeting of the Maryland chapter of the society. It is a memorial of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, wife of the ex-president, and was made out of surplus metal used in casting the Columbian liberty bell.

Victim of a Practical Joke.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Frank L. Brown, a barber from Detroit, arrived here yesterday with his wife, and a few hours later was quarantined as a smallpox suspect. Information reached Batavia that Brown had shaved a concealed case of smallpox in Detroit. Brown denies it but insists that he is the victim of a practical joke put up by his barber acquaintances at Detroit.

To Raise Money for a War.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres states that congress, in secret session, has sanctioned a war credit of $10,000,000 in view of a possible quarrel with Chile regarding the frontier.

DEMOCRATS CAUCUS
ON A MONEY BILLDEMOCRATS ARE TALKING THE THING OVER.

The Session Began at Two O'clock This Afternoon, and Was the Opening Fight of What Is Thought Will Be a Series of Sharp Parliamentary Battles.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—[Special]—The conference of democrats on the currency bill began at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The coming week in the house is likely to be full of surprises and parliamentary battles. The first battle is to be fought in the house caucus this afternoon. That gathering is likely to be a notable one. It is chiefly important and is so regarded by the treasury, not for what it may do on the general currency scheme but for the definite expression of opinion on the Coombs and Sperry bills to fund the greenbacks into low rate bonds.

A rule fixing the future course of debate in the house will not be introduced until to-morrow, and its terms will depend largely on the events of the caucus. There are evidences, however, that a coup d'etat will be put in execution then by those opposed to the bill. This will be a motion to strike out all after the enacting clause, which would be equivalent to a motion to kill the bill. The parliamentary leaders of the house have been consulted and have agreed that this move is regular and in accordance with the rules. They are expecting the move, although it is not known positively that it will be executed. If an early vote is thus precipitated and all of the bill after the enacting clauses struck out it would do away with the five minute debate and put a summary end to the struggle. If, however, the motion to strike out should fail to secure a majority the five minute debate would proceed until the final vote was taken. There is no program for the week beyond the currency bill, as this measure will exclude consideration of everything else until it is settled.

MEASURES IN THE SENATE.

Nicaraguan Canal Bill the Principal
Topic of Discussion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The senate will adjourn to-day soon after the hour of meeting as a mark of respect to Representative Post. To-morrow the Nicaraguan canal bill will again be before the senate and the regular proceedings of the week will begin with a speech in support of the measure by Senator Mitchell of Oregon. The friends of the canal bill are hopeful that a vote may be reached during the week. The pension bill is the only appropriation now before the senate, and it is not believed its consideration will consume much time, but there is a probability that the urgent deficiency bill will be reported during the week, and in case it should be it will be made the basis for numerous speeches on the appropriations for carrying the income tax into effect. While the opponents of the income tax generally disavow any intention to defeat the appropriation they openly confess their purpose of using it as a text for speeches on the general policy of imposing such tax. The probabilities are, however, against any effort to secure consideration of this bill during the week. It is likely that two or three speeches will be made against the Nicaraguan bill during the week and there are still others so far unannounced to be made to its support. The advocates of the canal bill are beginning to grow somewhat anxious to receive a vote, as they suspect an effort to hold this off until it may be possible to displace the bill entirely with some other measure, or if this be avoided and the bill passed, that it will reach the house too late to secure consideration during the present session. The general understanding now is that when the Nicaragua bill shall be disposed of by the senate the bankruptcy bill will be taken up for consideration and that after that the territorial admission bills will receive attention.

Saturday in the House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Saturday in the house was consumed by debate over the Carlisle currency plan, in which Representative Cokeran of New York was the most conspicuous figure. He opposed the bill throughout and declared himself in favor of the Baltimore plan. Mr. Lacey (rep., Iowa) also spoke in opposition, while Mr. Boatner (dem., La.) and Mr. Catchings (dem., Miss.) exhorted their party to unite in support of the measure.

Think They Have Scott's Body.

O'NEILL, Neb., Jan. 7.—The searchers for Scott's body think they have found it at the bottom of an old well near the scene of the abduction. It could not be raised, but clothing was found in the well and the body is believed to be there. It will be raised to-day. It was long before daybreak when the searching party that was organized at the mass meeting Saturday night assembled on the court house square. There they were divided into detachments and each selected a leader. Fully fifty men were in the party that made the discovery.

Parisian Women Express Conflicting Opinions on the Corset Question.

A number of well known women in Paris, chiefly theatrical, have been consulted on the corset question, and their verdict is not unanimous.

Gyp says: "I am altogether opposed to the wearing of the corset. Why? Because I think it frightful, unhealthy and ungraceful. It spoils a pretty figure and does not improve a bad one."

George Gould's Bright Children.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould have four pretty children—Masters Jay, Kingdon and Vivian, the baby, and little Miss Marjorie. Their pictures had been jealously guarded from publication until Mr. Gould gave them out on the other side of the Atlantic in return for the numerous compliments paid him and his pretty ex-actress wife during their yachting and social conquest in England.

He Worked the Boss.

A little man with a bald head and an inoffensive blue eye drifted into a Main street saloon and threw a half dollar on the bar.

"Gimme a schooner of beer," he said. The schooner was given him. Just as he was about to drink it a big man came in and said: "Hello, Shorty. Who's buying?"

"I am," replied Shorty, with dignity. "You," scoffed the big man. "Why, you never had a cent in your life. Your wife gets your wages."

"That's all right," said Shorty. "Mebbe she does, but I've got money today."

"How'd you get it?"

"Well," replied Shorty, "I don't know as I mind tellin' I had a couple of bad teeth, an she gimme enough to get 'em pulled."

"Didn't you get 'em pulled?"

"Sure, but I worked her for 50 cents for gas, an this is the 50. See?"—Buffalo Express.

A MOTHER'S DUTY

TOWARDS HER DAUGHTERS.

Suggestions Which May Help to Avoid Many Dangers.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Less than twenty years ago even the medical profession scouted the idea that young girls could suffer from the misery of uterus troubles.

That form of disease, it was claimed, came only to married women.

When Lydia E. Pinkham first sent out the news of her great discovery, there was no lack of harsh speech from those whose practice and opinions she set at defiance.

But when young girls by the hundreds were absolutely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then the tongues of the traducers were stilled, and faith was allowed to live in the hearts of the people.

Young girls are subject to this trouble. It robs them of the buoyancy of youth. It makes all effort distasteful.

It causes retention and suppression of menses, leucorrhoea, severe headache, waxy complexion, depression, weakness, loss of appetite and interest.

This being the condition of your daughter, what is your duty, loving mother?

Certainly you ought to know that these are all symptoms of the one cause of nearly all the suffering that comes to women; and to save your daughter you ought to begin that treatment at once, which for 20 years proved its power throughout the world.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the surest and most natural remedy for women ever compounded. It will accomplish its work with certainty.

invented. Try a corset on a woman not used to it, and before an hour had passed she would be nearly dead.

Mme. Jane Hading—Hand of iron under a velvet glove—that is what the corset is. Since my tour in America I have become in favor of a war of independence.

Mlle. Reichenberg—The corset is part of the ordinary clothing of a woman, like shoes, gloves or what not. I have always worn one and find it very comfortable.

Mme. Julie—The bother of putting it on in the morning is outweighed by the pleasure of taking it off at night.

Mlle. Darlaud—A stupid piece of armor. I never wear one.

Mlle. Lender—I find it good at all times. It suits me admirably.

Mlle. Yvette Gilbert—When I was thin, I made use of the corset to make me look stouter, and now that I am growing stouter I make use of it to make me look thinner, so you see that it has been of great service to me.

A sketch is given of a gown worn at a recent Parisian wedding. It is of yellow liberty silk. The plain skirt has two clusters of plaits on each side, held at the top by bunches of violets, and a pointed band of guipure over violet velvet borders the foot of the skirt. The tight corsage is entirely covered with guipure. The collar is of velvet, as is the belt, which forms a large bow in front, fastened by a jeweled buckle. The voluminous sleeves have clusters of violets at the elbow, where they terminate.

APPROPRIATE DRESSING.

Cut and Material Should Regulate the Appearance of a Gown.

A recent writer asserts that one of the most difficult things to impress upon the mind of the average woman is the appropriateness of her costumes to the time of wearing them. Especially is this so with the younger portion of the feminine creation, who are so fond of wearing pretty things that they resolutely ignore all rules on this subject and wear garments entirely out of season and sometimes in direct violation of good taste. No lady would think of putting on her kitchen dress to wear in the afternoon, but this would be no more out of the way than to wear a reception dress for a strictly informal "at home," where only the members of the household and intimate friends would be present.

There is another thing about which many women are inclined to go wrong. This is the use of the low cut bodice before 6 o'clock in the evening. The low waist is as imperatively confined to evening dress as the man's dress coat, and one should be as careful about the hours for adopting it. Overdressing is another weakness, and in nothing is this more notable than in the church apparel of the rank and file of womankind. It is no unusual thing to see young women and young matrons at divine service in costumes that belong to dressy afternoon occasions. The wearing of such dresses is not in atrocious taste. The sanctuary is not the place for watering place toilets, and much more attention should be given to this error than it receives.

The favorite colors for dinner and evening gowns are yellow, pueria and "bleu faux." The skirts are usually plain, with perhaps an arrangement of trimming about the foot, and the bodice is round or made with a very short basque.

The evening gown illustrated is intended for a young girl. It is made of watered bengaline of a straw tint. The bell skirt has a puffing of straw mousseline de soie about the foot, headed by a garland of daisies. The round, full bodice has a puffed and ruffled berth of mousseline de soie, and the sleeves are composed of two frills of the same goods. A ribbon belt fastens behind with long ends and is decorated at the side of the front by a cluster of daisies.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1715—Fenelon (François de Salignac) de la Mothe, French writer, died; born 1651.
 1718—General Israel Putnam, born in Danvers, Mass.; died 1790.
 1793—Joseph Bonaparte, eldest brother of Napoleon, king of Naples and Spain, born at Corti, Corsica; died in England, 1844. Joseph's reign in Spain, from 1808 to 1813, was only a nominal one. The Spaniards refused to acknowledge him, and Napoleon only kept them in subjection by maintaining powerful armies in the peninsula under his favorite marshals, Soult, Massena and Suchet, who were responsible to the emperor. After the battle of Waterloo he emigrated to the United States and resided at Bordentown, N. J., until the accession of Louis Philippe in 1830, when he returned to Europe.
 1890—The Empress Augusta, widow of Emperor William, died in Berlin; born 1811.
 1891—Balmaceda assumed dictatorship in Chile. Beginning of the Chilean civil war.

AFRAID OF A SPECIAL SESSION.

It is easy to understand that the president is anxious to avoid the necessity of calling the Fifty-fourth congress in special session. Nor is this entirely due to the circumstance that that body will be of the opposite party from himself. Extra sessions of congress have usually been in disfavor with both the people and presidents, and they are never had except when congress in the preceding regular session has shirked its duty, as it is doing now, or when some crisis suddenly presents itself, as happened in 1893 when democrats got to work and the panic set in. Not since the Hayes administration has any president had to call congress together except Cleveland. If he has to do this again his record in this respect will equal Hayes, Jefferson and Madison also, when confronted with "extraordinary occasions," brought congress together twice.

FRAGILE TAMMANY HEARTS.

Tammamy is trying the virtue of pathos. One official is reported to have died of a broken heart, yet he never showed that he was made of penetrable stuff until found out and suspended. Some of Boss McKane's old congregation are trying to pray him out of prison, though he still has hidden away several hundred thousand dollars stolen from the town of Gravesend.

As they have advanced in Corea and China the Japanese generals have established a civil government in the territory occupied, and have aimed to make it a decided improvement on the corrupt and greedy Chinese system of administration. These provinces may object to going back to the old order of things, and there are no signs that Japan intends to give them the chance.

Canada's late premier, Sir John Thompson, died a poor man, with net assets of $1500 outside a life insurance policy for $5726. He had been an untiring worker in the cabinet for seven years. The Canadians appreciate such a public servant and are getting up for his family a testimonial fund of $30,000.

A splendid water route, beating any possible ship canal, exists between the United States and Japan, and the future trade between the two countries ought to grow into something vast unless some diplomatist of the Gresham stamp succeeds in muddling the old friendly relations.

If President Cleveland calls a special session of the new congress, his action will signify that he is willing to co-operate with the republicans in undoing as soon as possible the evil things done by the democrats in the first two years of his term.

The treasury gold balance, which is down to $86,000,000, has been reduced $25,000,000 in about a month. As this is the season when gold exportation is usually heavy, the balance is likely to be smaller or for it is larger.

IS IN JUDGE RICK'S FAVOR.

Case is turned over to the Full Judiciary Committee of the House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Owing to the illness of Representative Bailey, chairman of the subcommittee which investigated the charges against Judge Ricks of Ohio, the case has been turned over to the full judiciary committee of the house for further action. This was done at Mr. Bailey's request. This turn in the investigation is believed on general principles to be more favorable to Judge Ricks than if the subcommittee had completed its work under its chairman.

MRS REED'S FARM CLEARED BY FIRE

DESTRUCTIVE BLAZE RAGED
EARLY THIS MORNING.

House, Barn, Shed, Hay, Grain, Tools and Everything Else, Including a Ten Acre Tobacco Crop, Were Destroyed, and the Loss Will Reach $3,000.—City News.

Mrs. MARGARET REED's farm half a mile south of the school for the blind was the scene of a $3,000 fire of unknown origin at 3 o'clock this morning. A dwelling house, barn, tobacco shed, hay, grain, wagons, sleighs and farming tools were destroyed. Morris Reed was sleeping in the house when he was awakened by the fire. "I got out and saved a team of horses," he said. "I then went to the house and got a sewing machine and three chairs. Everything else was destroyed. The buildings were all on fire when I got out. Mr. Reed had insurance with Pfening & Mooser, on the house for $750. The loss will be heavy, probably reaching three thousand dollars. It was this fire which illuminated the city at 3 o'clock this morning and caused Officer Ed Smith to wake the men in the engine houses in anticipation of an alarm.

NEW OFFICERS GO IN OLD ONES GO OUT

MADE A CLEAN SWEEP AT THE COURT HOUSE.

County Clerk McIntyre and Judge Bennett the Only Ones Who Were Not Removed—Sheriff Appleby's Appointments, Except a Turnkey Have Not Yet Been Decided.

"Good morning," said the new county officers.

"Good bye," said the old ones.

This was moving day at the court house and a clean sweep was made, upstairs and down, except in the clerk's office.

Judge John R. Bennett's term expired, but he succeeded himself, and the only thing to break the quiet routine of the judge's chamber was his quiet announcement of the appointment of Justice M. S. Prichard and Ex-Court Clerk E. D. McGowan as court commissioners, and A. L. Kavalege and F. C. Grant court reporters.

Charles L. Valentine, who has filled the office of register of deeds with credit and honor for eighteen years, turned the office over to Oscar D. Rowe, and after the exchange of compliments, Register Rowe opened a box of cigars and announced the appointment of A. E. Tanburg as deputy register.

A. D. Burdick turned the keys of the county treasurer's safe over to his successor, Charles N. Nye, and Treasurer Nye at once took charge of the cash drawer. Mr. Burdick will make Walworth county his home in future. Treasurer Nye will not move his family to Janesville but will continue to live on his farm in the town of Beloit, the trains making it very convenient for him to do so.

Richard O'Donnell succeeded George Hanthorn as coronor, the change being made very quietly. Down town District Attorney Wheeler was surrendering to W. J. Jackson. The other change was that in the county jail, where Sheriff J. L. Bear turned the keys of the bastille over to his successor, W. H. Appleby. Sheriff Appleby has not announced his deputies, except the appointment of Ray North of Beloit as deputy sheriff and turnkey. However, it is intimated that L. M. Nelson is to have the first place, that of under sheriff. This appointment will please all who are acquainted with Mr. Nelson, and who recognize his fitness for the important position. Mr. Nelson has been deputy sheriff for a number of years, and the duties will not be new to him.

Change Up Stairs and Down

In the office of clerk of the court, where Clerk E. D. McGowan, completing a service of eight years, turning the office over to his successor, T. W. Goldin. Clerk Goldin promptly appointed Miss Genevieve Rich his deputy.

Emmett D. McGowan, the retiring clerk, will resume the practice of law with offices in Sutherland's block. He has been clerk of the circuit court for eight years, and this important office was never filled more acceptably than during his term. This is the uniform testimony of the members of the bar as well as all others having business with the office. Although giving universal satisfaction, he declined a re-nomination last fall, for the purpose of engaging in the practice of his profession. Mr. McGowan read law about three years in the office of Bennett & Sale, and was admitted to the bar in December, 1883. He practiced three years with Edwin F. Carpenter, Esq., and until he was elected clerk of the circuit court, and entered upon the performance of the duties of the office on the first Monday of January, 1887. He was born in this city, July 15th, 1859, and has always resided here, and no young man in this county has a finer character or a more spotless reputation than he has. He was a poor boy, but by energy, industry and capacity, he surmounted every difficulty in his pathway, and today stands the peer of any young man in the county, as well as another striking example of the self-made man. He is well on the way toward achieving that success in his chosen profession, which his capacity, industry and honorable and upright life and character so justly deserve.

COLD WAVE TO HIT THE TOWN

Twenty Below Zero For Three Days Is the Prospect.

"Prepare for three days of a cold wave; thermometer 20 below zero. Wave is now leaving Minnesota, and will include Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and the west."

Now let's hear you scoff at ear laps!

Or yarn mittens! Or hot bricks!

The dispatch about the blizzard came from the C. M. & St. P. general manager's office at 11 o'clock this morning. The Janesville depot force decided at once to bank their building with shavings, pile, three days coal alongside the stove and wrap the chimney in flanne. To keep it from being frozen off. Other people should do likewise, for this is no imitation cold wave.

It is a Frosty-Mouthed Finger-Freezer from Fortybelowville.

Milwaukee experts say so.

The St. Paul road said so.

S. C. Burnham says so.

Mr. Burnham hung his black flag out about 10:30 and he has been wishing for a bigger one and a blacker one ever since. His bulletin this afternoon reads:

Forecast: Severe cold wave tonight and Tuesday. Several days of low temperature will follow.

MANITOBA
The temperature as recorded by S. J. Burnham & Co. during the last twenty-four hours was as follows:
7 a. m. ... 28 above
p. m. ... 32 above

IZIEGLER HELPS THE HOSPITAL.

One Per Cent of February's Receipts Will Be Paid To Them.

T. J. Ziegler, through his manager, E. J. Smith, proposes to do something that will make everyone in Janesville say "amen." He is going to give the Oak Lawn hospital one per cent of the net proceeds during the month of February. This is an act on their part that is most commendable. Janesville never had a better institution than the City Hospital or one that did more good. It seems hard that so worthy a charity should have to be suspended for the want of support. This was the way this enterprising firm looked at it. Any committee that the hospital directors will name will have full authority to look over the books and one percent of the amount of business that they find will immediately be paid them. This move on the part of the live clothing firm is one that is to be commended and if everyone else will help according to their means the doors will again swing open to accommodate the sufferers to whom the comforts of good quarters are denied.

Gamblers Pay for Protection.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 6.—There was a public exposure yesterday of the methods by which the gamblers in South Omaha secure protection. The investigation discloses the fact that the gamblers in the packing house suburb have been paying into the city treasury regularly each month the sum of $50. Other cases of bribery have also been traced and a big scandal is imminent.

Plan to Force an Issue of Bonds.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 7.—Congressman Wilson speaking yesterday of national finances said there evidently was on foot a scheme to force the further issue of bonds and that Secretary Carlisle having committed an unlawful act in utilizing the reserve to meet current expenses would, as a sequence, probably be forced into another unlawful move.

Gen. Philip Sidney Post Dead.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Death invaded the ranks of the Illinois delegation in the Fifty-third congress yesterday morning and took from among them Gen. Philip Sidney Post of the Tenth district, whose home has been at Galesburg. Mr. Post's death was very unexpected and a great shock to his congressional colleagues. The immediate cause of death was heart disease.

Trouble Will Be Settled.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 7.—The trouble in regard to the cut in wages at the works of the American Ax and Tool company is about at an end as far as all departments are concerned except the polishers, and to-day the works resume operations in some of the departments and the others will follow suit as they are needed.

Fire at Bay City, Mich.

The establishment was known as "the company's store" and is generally thought to have been owned by Bell, Lewis & Co., the coal operators, whose miners are out on strike.

Handle Factory Destroyed.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The handle factory of Gilbert & Young was burned yesterday, all the stock and machinery being destroyed. The loss is $6,000, with no insurance. Thirty men are thrown out of employment.

BLEW OUT THE GAS AND NEARLY DIED

J. H. McDOWELL, OF HALL'S SUMMIT, KANSAS, LUCKY.

Thought the Chandelier Was Some New Fangled Lamp So He Put the Flame Out and Went to Bed

Odor Was Traced to His Room Just in Time To Save Him.

Out in Halls summit Kansas, they have no gas.

Hence J. H. McDowell, of that place wasn't acquainted with its use.

That's why he blew it out when he was ready to retire at the Park Hotel Saturday night.

He won't do it again, and it looked for a time as if he would never have another chance.

McDowell came to the hotel Saturday, registered, and was given a room. At 10:30 that night a party of gentlemen who were playing cinch began to smell gas. One of them remarked that the odor was getting pretty strong and Landlord Galbraith began to investigate. The burners in the office were all right and he noticed that it was stronger near the stairway. Just as he started up stairs W. H. Washburne of Pawnee, an uncle of Milton Barney, who had just started to go to bed came to the head of the stairs and called Mr. Barney telling him that the second floor hallway was heavy with the fumes. Mr. Barney at once went up stairs and finally traced the gas to McDowell's room. The transom was open an inch or so and Mr. Barney stood on the door knob and peered in. A wave of the death dealing fluid rolled into his face and nearly knocked him over. Then they knew where the trouble lay. The door was locked and Mr. McDowell was in bed apparently asleep.

Never Saw Gas Before.

"Hey there! Wake up! Mr. Barney called but McDowell only moved a little and grunted.

"Wake up or you'll soon be where you can't" called Mr. Barney and McDowell asked in a feeble voice what was wanted.

"Get up and open the door," Mr. Barney commanded.

McDowell got up but fell down before he got to the door but another shout awakened him and he staggered forward and turned the key in the lock. The room was blue with the gas and Mr. Barney at once opened the windows and let in the air. Then McDowell began to revive.

"Blew out the gas, didn't you?" Mr. Barney asked.

"Why yes. I blew out the light."

"Didn't you know that was gas?"

"Gas?"

"Didn't you ever see any gas before?"

"No."

"Don't you know that in twenty minutes you would be dead?"

"No, I just know that that I came here to go to Valentine's school, but I can live I am going right back to Kansas. I don't like this country. I thought that thing on the wall was some kind of a patent lamp. It didn't smell good after I blew it out, and I thought maybe I hadn't snuffed the wick, but that it would be all right after awhile."

McDowell recovered completely during the day yesterday, and packed up his grip and left for his native heath. It was a close call for him, for had the transom been shut, the leak would not have been discovered until too late.

To the smallest of surviving ladies who have presided at the White house a name unfamiliar to all but older readers has lately been added, that of Mrs. Danbridge, the surviving daughter of Zachary Taylor, and who was known at the White house as "pretty Betty Bliss." Mrs. Danbridge, whose first husband was Colonel Bliss, President Taylor's chief of staff, has been visiting Washington lately.

A Plausible Explanation.
"When you sold me this cane you warranted the handle to be genuine ivory. I have had it examined and it is not genuine. I want my money back," said the customer.
"If the ivory is not genuine it is not my fault. I import the ivory myself direct from Africa," replied the genial proprietor.
"How do you account for it being imitation?"
"I can't explain, except, that perhaps, civilization has so far advanced in Africa that the elephants have taken to wearing false tusks."—Tammany Times.

Very Sharp.
"The ladies are all going to work and earn all they can to help pay off the church debt."
Mrs. Flaunt—How are you going to get yours?
"I'll get Rob to pay me a quarter every time his meals don't please him."
"Well, for my part, I don't see any use of the others doing anything."—Dallas (Tex.) Times-Herald.

How to Kill a Fad.
Fogee—This bloomer business among female bicycle riders makes me tired. I wish I could hit upon some scheme to kill it in this town.
Hardhed—Humph, that's easy! Just get one of your newspaper friends to slip in an item saying that the costume makes the wearer's feet look three sizes larger than they really are.—Buffalo Courier.

A Recommendation.
She—I am afraid you won't like my father.
He—Why pray?
She—Well, because of his unsocial disposition. Most people consider him very distant.
He—That's a recommendation. It has been my experience to find most men in his class altogether too contiguous.—Richmond Dispatch.

Equal to the Occasion.
Old Beau—How you have grown since I saw you a year ago, Miss Winifred!
Bright-Eyed Damsel—I'm not the smallest fraction of an inch taller, Mr. Gayman. I got my growth three years ago.
Old Beau—O, but you've grown ever so much in my estimation!—Chicago Tribune.

The Retort Truthful.
Undertaker—How do you do, doctor? Have not seen you for a long time.
Doctor—I don't think I have had the pleasure of meeting you.
Undertaker—Oh, don't you recognize the man who has covered up your mistakes daily for the past ten years?—Judge.

A Coup De Force.
Clematis—After succeeding so well in getting Mr. Meanitall desperately in love with you, why did you struggle so hard when he kissed you under the mistletoe?
Antigone—Oh, just as a piece de resistance.—N. Y. World.

A Great Record.
Trivet—Miss Flop claims to have made a thousand refusals of offers of marriage.
Dicer—That's easily explained. When young Callow asked her to marry him, she replied: "No, a thousand times no."—Truth.

A Warning.
Ada—I don't think Blanche cares nearly as much for her husband as she did.
Ida—Well, she has reduced him to complete submission; and now, of course, she finds married life insipid.—Puck.

Danger Avoided.
Daughter—Is it really bad form to go shopping without a chaperon?
Mrs. De Style—Excessively. Young ladies who shop without a chaperon are almost sure to forget themselves and buy things.—N. Y. Weekly.

Your Wife.
She smiles, and from past sins absolves
The while she hears you swear off;
Though well she knows your good resolves
Within a month will wear off.—Judge.

GETTING EVEN.

Jones—I told you that I would get even with Smith, and I have.
Brown—How did you do it?
Jones—I made my wife put on her new two-hundred-and-fifty-dollar seal-skin sacque and go and call on his wife.—Judge.

Not Inaptly Characterized.
"You called him a hog because he took up two seats?"
"Yes."
"What did he say?"
"He grumbled something in reply, but I could see he was bristling with indignation."—N. Y. Press.

THE ISLE OF BOREDOM.

As you sail through life take pains and steer
Away from the island that lies too near—
The isle of Boredom, which all men fear.

The island sets up like a shelf of rock,
But woe to the sailor who lands at the dock
And offers the people a chance to talk.

For they talk all night, and they talk all day,
And try as you will to get away
They pin you down, and they make you stay.

They talk of things they have done and said;
They talk you awake, and they talk you to bed,
Till you almost wish they would talk you dead.

And the queerest thing and the one to deplore
About the dwellers upon that shore—
Not one of them knows that he is a bore.

So steer away from that island shelf
That is governed, they say, by a wicked elf,
Lest you be a bore and not know it yourself.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Youth's Companion.

THE LOST NECKLACE.

"I was returning from Paris, where I had been to purchase a diamond necklace for Edith, my fiancée. I had for my companion in the compartment a very lovely young woman and a little poodle dog that she addressed as Chico. It seemed to me that somewhere, and not very long ago, I had met my fair companion before.

"I sat for some time vainly trying to recall the circumstances of our meeting, but the more I pondered on it the more helpless seemed the task.

"A little later on, looking up, I found that my companion was without book or paper. So, taking an illustrated magazine from my satchel, I offered it to her. She thanked me and smiled sweetly. After a time I grew tired of my novel and resolved to attempt a little conversation with my neighbor. I asked her if she was going to Nice. She replied that she was and went on to say that her sister, whom she had expected would go with her, had disappointed her at the last moment. She, however, could not wait until the following day, as her father, who was at Nice for his health, had wired her to return at once.

"She spoke of her dislike for traveling; that, as the compartment reserved for ladies was full, she had been obliged to enter mine. She was sorry to intrude, but the train was about to start, and the guard had told her all the other seats were taken.

"I hastened to assure her that I was glad of the lucky chance that had given me so charming a companion. She smiled and asked me if I was to be long at Nice. She chatted on about the place, mentioning the names of many well-known people, who, she said, were her friends and whom I should no doubt meet.

"As the evening wore on she opened a basket containing a dainty lunch. 'Would I share it with her?' The cook evidently had a ridiculous idea of her appetite. Why, there was enough for six! This seemed to be the case. So, as we were by this time very well acquainted, I accepted her invitation, and we were soon doing justice to a really excellent lunch.

"What a charming creature she is! I thought. 'How Edith will like her!' Growing confidential, I spoke of my visit to Nice and of the dear girl who was awaiting me there. She seemed interested and listened patiently to the recital of my fair one's many charms. 'You will meet her and can see for yourself if all I say of her is not true!' I exclaimed. 'She will be very grateful to you for having made this stupid journey pleasant for me.'

"We will drink her health!" cried my companion gayly, drawing a small silver flask of exquisite workmanship from the depths of her basket. 'I always carry a little cognac with me in case of sickness,' she explained. Opening the flask and filling a dainty glass with the amber liquid, she handed it to me, with a radiant smile. 'To Edith's health,' she said.

"I drained the glass. It was brandy of the finest quality I had ever tasted. She seemed to read my thoughts.

"You are a judge of good liquor. That is Otard of 1870."

"Taking the glass from my hand, she poured a little of the liquor into it and barely touched it to her lips.

"You must not judge my good wishes by the amount I take. I wish you all the happiness that life can give, but I cannot drink as you men do. To me it is simply a medicine."

"Soon after this I began to grow sleepy, and as my companion did not seem inclined to talk I made myself as comfortable as circumstances would permit. I turned my head toward the window, through which the surrounding country could be seen dimly in the moonlight, as we rushed along, and resigned myself to a night of comfort. The next thing it was broad daylight. I awoke with a dull pain in my head and a sense of weariness that my sleep had rather increased than diminished.

"My companion was sitting by the window reading the book I had given her the night before. On perceiving that I was awake she put down her book and remarked that I was a sound sleeper and that she envied me. She had passed a wretched night and was glad that we would soon be in Nice. I thought of Edith, whom I should now see so soon, and then of the surprise I had in store for her.

"I hoped that the necklace would please her, and then, for the first time, it occurred to me that perhaps it would have been better if I had consulted some woman of taste before buying it. A brilliant idea struck me—my companion was just the one to decide. I would ask her opinion. It was not too late to change the necklace for something else if she thought it not suitable. I was sure she would tell me candidly just what she thought.

"Unbuttoning my coat, I drew the package from my pocket and laid it on my lap. Removing the wrappings, I opened the little blue casket. For a moment I could not believe my eyes—it was empty!

"I turned quickly to my companion. She was leaning forward motionless, breathless, her face pale and in her eyes a look that I shall never forget. One hand was passed convulsively over her heart. She had removed her gloves, worn the night before, and on one finger blazed a diamond—the one I had seen the previous day at the jeweler's. In an instant I saw it all. I sprang forward and grasped her wrist—roughly, I am afraid.

"Give me back that necklace, you thief!" I cried. 'I know you. You stood by my side yesterday in the jeweler's shop on the Avenue de l'Opera. I remember that ring and your voice. You heard me say that I was going to Nice by this train. The liquor you gave me was drugged, and you thought to escape before your theft was discovered. It was a very clever scheme, but it has failed. Give me the necklace, or I shall turn you over to the police.'

"I stretched out my hand, thinking that, seeing the folly of further concealment and the uselessness of denial, she would return the stolen property. I was wrong. She drew herself up haughtily and looked me full in the face. When she spoke, it was in a voice that showed no trace of the sweetness which had at first attracted me.

"You have brought a serious charge against me," she said, 'and one of which I am innocent. I am alone and a woman, this with a momentary tremor in her voice that somehow made me ashamed of the way I had spoken to her. 'If, as you say, you have lost a necklace, your only reason for accusing me of having stolen it is that we have been the only occupants of this compartment. The instant you opened the box and found it empty I saw the position I was placed in. Fortunately, however, I can prove my innocence.'

"Perhaps you may hesitate before again attempting to blackmail an unprotected woman. As soon as we arrive at Nice I shall insist on going at once to the police station, where a thorough search of my baggage and person shall be made. I shall then ask you to prove that you ever had a necklace.' This remark was accompanied by a smile that was not pleasant to see. 'Until we reach Nice you will not address me again.'

"She leaned back in her seat and turned her face toward the window. I felt rather than saw that she was crying.

"I began to feel uncomfortable. What if, after all, I had been too ready to jump at conclusions and had been mistaken? Was it not possible that the box might have been empty when I received it from the jeweler's? I had not seen the necklace after it was left to be repaired, as the box was wrapped up when I called for it. My companion had insisted on an investigation that might prove her innocence—an investigation that a guilty woman would never have proposed. Besides this she had expressed a doubt as to the existence of the necklace and had accused me of an attempt to blackmail. The more I thought of it the more unpleasant my position became.

"Suddenly my eyes fell on something bright on the floor of the carriage. I stooped and picked it up. It proved to be the little heart shaped padlock I had noticed the night before on the poodle's collar. Like a flash a thought came to me. Here might be the solution of the problem. At any rate, I would put it to the test. No time should be lost, as we were just entering the station, and in a moment more the guard would open the carriage door.

"Reaching across the seat with a quick motion, I drew the sleeping animal to my side. The woman sprang forward to prevent me, but she was too late. I had already torn the collar from the dog's neck and was holding it to the light that entered dimly through the windows from the station.

"I breathed a sigh of relief. The inside of the collar contained a hollow groove, and in this groove, securely fastened, lay the missing necklace. I turned triumphantly to my companion. The door was open. She was gone.

"That morning as I entered Edith's parlor the little poodle trotted contentedly by my side, and instead of the collar he wore the necklace. As for the woman, I never saw her again."—Kate Field's Washington.
